CARNIVAL.

It requires the refined levity of the Latin character to fully appreciate the delights of Carnival, the modern Saturnalia, when even Northern Stoics cast away the perennial mask of gravity and assume that of folly, mirth and pleasure, in defiance of a good sense, which is proverbial, and unwittingly acknowledges the supremacy of surroundings. Carnival is a geueral favourite because it appeals to qualities inherent to humanity; it is a solace to those who year in year out wear a countenance as gloomy as Cato's and as wrinkled as Hecate's. In the Saturnalia of the day woman is supreme, the prelude to the Millennium, when maskless she may tread on etiquette and cast to the winds that reservedness so often supposed to be innate, yet is only the choice study of years of affectation.

Whether on the historical banks of the Tiber, or on the smiling shores of the Plate, the people wish to be amused; and the question is yet distant whether we are unfortunately too wise to be foolish. A nation is judged by its pastimes. Whoever wanders along our Corso, gazes on the lovely women indolently reclining in the carriages, trusting to the gentility of the people, inhales the perfumed atmosphere, and sees the supremacy of flowers in the landau, in the street, on the balcony and in the drawing-rooms, can only draw one conclusion—the people are essentially refined. Only a cynic, a pharisee, or a hypocrite, can strive to cast odium on a pastime, poetical in the South, ridiculous in the cold North, which is so dear to the people, and the greatest compliment to the refined courtesy and gallant demeanour of a nation. Happily we are not all philosophers, and we can yet afford to enjoy our 'panem et circenses, and laugh at the scorn and scruples of augurs, whose masks were torn off during the Roman saturnalia.

The Buenos Airean Carnival cannot lose the inveterate custom of throwing water in some way or another. The pomo perfumes are unmeaning things, and, strange to say, in spite of all the hue and cry, they are bought up by thousands; there is magnetism in the squirt; nobody can deny it when he sees the pomo struggles in a drawing room; the pastime is most innocent, and an excuse for wearing cheaper dresses, and it is incomprehensible why some people object to the use of the little fountain; the pomo has many qualities; it opens conversation and is conducive to familiarity, bearing down the prudish obstacles of conventionality. We yet hope to see the day when the pomo is discarded and flowers, sweetmeats, etc, are used instead; but who can dream of a Buenos Aires Carnival without the pomo, the egg, or the bucket of water? The Carnival would be Roman or Venetian, but Buenos Airean no longer.

This year Carnival was very lively, although we remarked the absence of many fashionable turn-outs, no doubt owing to politics or some other cause; the streets were gaily decorated and all the drawing-rooms were thrown open. The ball rooms were crowded, and Buenos Aires, one could see, was really enjoying itself. The comparsas, as numerous as ever, delighted all. Folly was supreme, gravity laughed at, and severe etiquette trampled upon. Disorders there were none, as usual, because the city is too well off to have a mob: if we had a mob there could be no corso, no pomos, and no mask-balls beginning on the 31st Dec. and ending on 1st of March. It remains to be seen whether 20 years hence the custom of celebrating Carnival has improved with double the population of the present day, or fallen into obloquy.

The Carnival of 1881 may be truly called the Cranwell Carnival, since it is due to the enterprize of Mr G A Cranwell that the people were amused at such a trifling outlay. Pomos that last year cost $70 m/c per dozen were this year to be had at $26 m/c per dozen retail and $18 m/c per dozen wholesale. Small pomitos for children, that two years ago Mr Cranwell bought in London at 18d. per dozen, were sold this year here at $4 m/c per dozen. All the pomos used were manufactured in this city, and some idea of the magnitude of this trade can be gathered from the fact that Mr Cranwell sold this year TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND DOZENS OF POMOS, every one of which was made in this country at Mr Cranwell's manufactory. In fact Cranwell sold a dozen pomos to every adult in Buenos Ayres. At no previous Carnival was the consumption of pomos so great, yet we believe in every town and village in the Plate there are pomos over.

The Corso on Sunday was not so brilliant as on the succeeding evenings. The President of the Republic, in true democratic garb and in a very quiet coach joined the Corso. Dr del Viso, Minister of Interior, sat in one of the balconies of Calle Peru, witnessing the sight. Some of the other Ministers threw open their houses to the 'comparsas' which were very numerous, whilst the turn out of dressed up furniture vans filled with masked women of the period was unusually large. The balls at the clubs del Plata and Progreso were very crowded and most unusually gay; some of the ladies who spoke many languages caused immense fun in foreign circles. Monday being a business day at the Bolsa and Banks, the fun was not resumed until late in the afternoon; the streets were crowded and no water throwing. The corso on Monday night was much more crowded than on Sunday, and many more private coaches filled the places of some comparsas suppressed by the Lord Mayor. Tuesday evening, however, was the gayest, grandest, and most pomista of all; batteries of pomos were in every sala, defended by pretty women and girls. At 10 o'clock calle Florida was completely blocked up. In the neighbourhood of the club some of the windows were held by lovely English girls who entered thoroughly into the spirit of the scene; the club azotea was thrown open to the families of the members, and when the corso terminated the mask balls began, they held until daylight, and thus closed the Carnival of 1881.

The Makelyne's Mails.

London, February 5.
In the House of Lords last night Earl Spencer announced the willingness of the Government to refer the Prevention of Floods Bill to a Select Committee; but as the subject had been largely considered, he trusted it would not be necessary to take evidence.
In the House of Commons a series of disorderly scenes resulted in the suspension of more than forty Irish members. After this the House quietly devoted itself to a discussion on Mr. Gladstone's Resolution amending the Standing Orders.
In a telegram received at the War Office yesterday, Sir George Colley states that he has moved his camp to fresh ground and sent in the bulk of his waggons to Newcastle. Telegraphic connection with the camp is complete.
A telegram from St. Petersburg announces that General Scobeleff has occupied Askabad.
In the French Chamber yesterday M. Proust brought forward his interpellation on the policy of the Government towards Greece. He condemned the arbitration proposal, but declared that the Powers ought now to refrain from further intervention. M. St. Hilaire defended the policy of the Government. He said that Greece had misinterpreted the decisions of the Berlin Congress and Conference. It was not in the power of Europe to give away Thessaly and Epirus, as they did not belong to her. The policy of France was a policy of peace. Greece would act wisely if she ceased her armaments and patiently confided in the benevolent intentions of Europe. An order of the day approving the statement of the Foreign Minister and the pacific policy of the Government was then adopted.
According to a telegram from Dusseldorf, Prince Leopold of Hohenzollern had been forcibly abducted by three men from the garden of the Castle. He succeeded, however, in escaping from them and returned to Dusseldorff. According to some accounts the men suffered him to escape, on discovering that they had mistaken him for his younger brother, recently chosen as heir to the throne of Roumania. Our correspondent in Berlin says that the account of the abduction is officially stated there to be devoid of foundation.
Mr. Goschen, M.P., Her Majesty's Ambassador at Constantinople, arrived at Osborne yesterday, to take leave of the Queen, and had the honour of dining with Her Majesty.
A number of canvassers were yesterday examined by the Macclesfield Election Commissioners as to the wholesale distribution of money and refreshment tickets. A feature of the evidence was that in many cases payment was made to electors after they had given their votes unsolicited.
At yesterday's meeting of the Court of Common Council a letter from the Remembrancer was read, appealing to the sense of fairness and justice of the members to reconsider their decision, and to be allowed to be heard. A motion declaring the office of Remembrancer vacant was passed by a majority of 107 to 46.
The annual meeting of the associated Chambers of Commerce was continued yesterday. Amongst the subjects discussed were the operation of the wine duties, the negotiation of treaties of commerce, the duties imposed by the American Government upon the heavy woollen manufactures of Yorkshire, and the unequal charges of railway companies.
A special meeting of commanding officers of Metropolitan Volunteers was held yesterday, at which a resolution was carried unanimously, that it was desirable that a review should be held on Easter Monday, provided that a suitable locality can be obtained, and a committee was formed to make the necessary arrangements.
At the weekly meeting of the School Board for London yesterday, Sir Charles Reed, M.P., who presided, announced that the Duke of Edinburgh had consented to distribute prizes to the successful competitors of the London School Swimming Club, that the ceremony will take place at the Mansion House on the 21st inst., and that the Lord Mayor will preside. A motion by Mr. Heller raised the question of corporal punishment in schools. After a discussion the further consideration of the subject was adjourned. In accordance with a previous resolution of the Board a French teacher for Schools, to be selected by the School Management Committee, was appointed.

Mr. A. Phillpotts, in presiding at the annual general meeting of the London and County Bank, called attention to the fact that bankers generally made very few bad debts during the latter part of the year 1880, He wished he could say that that prosperity had been extended to agriculture, but unfortunately that great interest was still under considerable depression. In their relations with the farming class they had pursued generally one policy, that of prudent liberality. They had given assistance whenever assistance could be legitimately asked for.

The stock markets yesterday were very quiet, and the prices generally declined. Consols were, however, unchanged.

STATE OF IRELAND.

ARREST OF MICHAEL DAVITT.

Dublin, Jan. 27th.

Mr. Michael Davitt was arrested this afternoon in Dublin, while walking along Carlisle-bridge in company with Mr. Thomas Brennan and Mr. Mathew Harris, two of the traversers in the recent State Trials. He was accosted by Detective Officer Sheridan, of the Dublin metropolitan police, who, taking him aside, informed him that he was wanted. He accordingly proceeded with Sheridan to the office of the police Commissioners. On his arrival at the Castle-yard Davitt was given into the custody of Police Superintendent Williamson, of London. He gave up a revolver which he had in his possession, and requested that it should be taken to Mr. Brennan, with a request that Mr. Brennan should bring him his overcoat. The revolver was taken to Mr. Brennan, who, a short time after, took over the coat to Davitt. The Dublin police authorities profess to be in ignorance of the grounds for Mr. Davitt's arrest. It is therefore not known whether it is because of a breach of the conditions of his licence or on account of the speech delivered by him at Borris on Sunday last, reported in the Daily News of Monday. There is considerable excitement in Dublin on account of the arrest of Mr. Davitt. At four o'clock Mr. Davitt was taken from the office of the police commissioners in the Lower Castle-yard, and placed in a cab. By this conveyance he was taken to Kingstown instead of the usual route by train from Westland-row. As no one but the detectives and one or two of Davitt's most intimate friends knew of his arrest, there was no crowd and no demonstration of any kind. The cab reached Kingstown about five o'clock, and Mr. Davitt was immediately taken on board the Royal Mail steamer Connaught, a special berth having been engaged for him.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

Here we are again!—after a dusty and, compared with former years, a very dry Carnival as far as water went, although there was a fair share of perfumed wet dispensed from 'pomitos,' which were more patronized than in former years. As a whole the Carnival of 1881 was decidedly gay.

The Maskelyne, Chevalier Hairby Commander, brings dates to 5th February, with full particulars of what is euphoniously called here 'the row in the House.' It was an unprecedented scene, and can never be repeated, as the rules of the House have been altered for obstruction contingencies. Mr Gladstone's speech on the occasion, when the Home Rulers had all been removed from the House, was, although short, one of the happiest efforts of his great career; and the first words of the leader of the Opposition, on rising to reply (not to oppose), were to the effect that the House had been 'entranced' by the Premier's eloquence. The arrest of Mr Davitt, one of the most prominent of the Land Leaguers, created surprise, but no excitement in Ireland, except amongst the Land Leaguers themselves. He was arrested on Carlisle Bridge, Dublin, and was sent across to England the same afternoon. The agitation appears to be rapidly subsiding in Ireland.

There was another sigh (some call it a growl) over the shortcomings of the Post Office on Tuesday, as notices from that department were posted up in the Bolsa and clubs to the effect that the mail bags for the Pling would be closed at 1 o'clock, and, in spite of this they were closed at noon, and dozen of clerks from the commercial houses, with huge piles of letters, were most indignantly disappointed on finding themselves late. This affair requires explanation. The tomfoolery of Carnival is no valid excuse for playing fast and loose with the Public.

A Communion Service will be held on Sunday next at St John's (Rev. Mr Gebbie's) Church at Quilmes, at which the Revd. James Smith will assist, and he will preach at the preparatory service to be held on Saturday at noon. There will be service as usual on Sunday in the Scotch Church in town, at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

The superb steamer Tridente, of the Argentine Lloyd's, in connection with the Campana Railway, Capt Vuccasovich, makes her first trip to-day to Rosario and ports. Those who are going up country should avail of this magnificent steamer, or her consort the Diana, as they are the nearest approach ever seen in these waters to the Emperor of Russia's yacht the Livadia.

Mr Shepherd, a young Englishman who had been for many years a shorthand reporter in Congress, died on Monday last, of inflammation of the lungs. The funeral took place on Wednesday at the British Cemetery, the Rev. James Smith officiating.

A telegraph inspector on the Southern Railway, named Alfred Woods, was killed by an engine on Monday night, near the Sola Works. As usual, the poor engine driver, although in no way to blame for the accident, is in custody.

We sincerely hope that the Municipality of this city and also the Corporate fathers of the camp towns will attend to the very reasonable request which the Archbishop of Buenos Aires has just made of them, viz, to take efficient steps to prevent this year the scandalous scenes which have occurred hitherto at the religious ceremonies of Lent, both inside and outside of the churches, owing to the 'gommeux' of the day considering the Temple of the Most High as fitting as any other place for worse than doubtful conduct, to say nothing of blocking up the doorways in order to subject ladies to their brainless and indecent remarks on entering and leaving the church. We have no doubt as to our energetic Lord Mayor responding vigorously to the Archbishop's appeal and giving the police such instructions as will make it decidedly unpleasant for the 'gummies,' if they repeat the scandalous scenes of former years.

The Gentleman's Magazine publishes the following:—"Herr R Emmerich appears as a rival to Dr Tanner, but not exactly an imitator. Instead of endeavoring to commit suicide by starvation, Herr Emmerich has striven to attain this object by drinking daily more than a pint of water from one of the brooks near Munich which receives sewage of all kinds, and which he believes to include the drainage from houses wherein typhoid fever cases have occurred. He is not yet dead, and appears to suppose that his own survival disproves the multitude of melancholy facts upon which the received conclusions respecting the poisonous character of sewage water are founded.

Telegrams have been received from Chile stating that Commissary Belmonte, of the Guanacos fort, who had gone to the headquarters of the 4th Division for aid when the fort was attacked by the Indians, perished at the hands of the savages. He was a most meritorious officer.

The Rev. Father Martin has returned to town, after a most arduous and successful mission in the rural districts. This zealous clergyman held three missions, one at Salto, another in the 'capilla' on Mr. E Casey's estancia at Arrecifes, and a third in Father Flannery's chapel at San Pedro, All three were attended by large and devout congregations. As Father Martin was alone, the duty was very severe on him, but we are happy to see him in excellent health on his return.

Dr Lausen, the eminent Danish physician, has removed from Calle Suipacha to 265 Calle Piedad.

We feel much pleasure in saluting the Revd, Largo Leahy, who is in town on a short visit, and, we are happy to say, in excellent health.

The Cranwell 'pomo' knocked all others into cocked hats during Carnival. Yesterday the street Arabs were busy picking up the used 'pomos' and taking them to Mr Cranwell's establishment, where all serviceable ones were purchased. The magnitude of Mr C.'s trade in this article may be estimated from the fact that the manufacture of it for next year's Carnival began yesterday.

There was a good deal of cricket going on during Carnival. At Montevideo the B.A. team won in slashing style, as will be seen by a telegram in another column. At Chascomus fortune proved unkind to B.A.Z.C.C team, who were two men short. They had great fun during the Carnival and did not go to bed at all during their trip; nevertheless, they looked as fresh as paint of Spring daisies when they arrived in town yesterday morning. The dinner given by the Chascomus Club was a superb affair, and the speeches were worthy of Congress. Our friend and subscriber, Mr. Auld, wound up the fun by giving a magnificent ball to the Buenos Aires visitors, who are much gratified at their hospitable reception. The Sastremé Hotel, 'by that lake whose gloomy shore,' is by no means gloomy, but as jolly as can be, and equal to our city hotels in cleanliness, 'cuisine,' attendance, &c., while the prices are most moderate.

We feel great pleasure in announcing that Dr. Moreno is out of danger and in a fair way towards recovery. After he had received the last rites of the Catholic Church on Saturday, Dr. Pirovan performed most skilfully a delicate operation on his throat, which gave instant relief, and has been followed by gradual improvement. The distinguished patient preserved his presence of mind all through, and wrote on a slip of paper, 'Who was the butcher? I wrs very near bringing you some news from the other world,' The doctors say that Dr. Moreno's recovery will be slow but sure.

The Maskelyne brings news of the death of Thomas Carlyle. The great writer died of old age, having been considerably over 80: he expired without pain at 8 o'clock a.m.' on February 5th,

Two Sisters of of the Sacred Heart, who have come from Paris, to join their community at the Irish Convent, land this morning from the Cosmos, and the Port Captain, Mr. Mansilla has courteously placed his 'falua' at their service.

Count Amelot the Chaillou, French Minister to this republic, has arrived in the Congo and is stopping at de Hotel de la Paix. We beg to welcome H.E. back to the River Plate.

There will be another splendid chance for surveying good wines and brandies to-morrow. See Messrs Day and Peake's advertizement in another column.

We see that Mr Seeber's plan for a comprehensive system of colonization in the Province of Buenos Ayres is now ready. It was drawn up by order of the Provincial Government. Buenos Ayres could easily beat all her sister provinces in agriculture, if she only tried, and she is about to do so.

A colleague announces that the Peruvian Minister here has sent to his Government some news affecting the dignity of the Banda Oriental Government. Dignity is a very serious thing indeed on this side of the Line, and must be handled as gingerly as a lady's reputation: but the Peruvian Government, if there is such a thing, is naturally so engrossed at present in looking after its own dignity that it can hardly have much time or attention to bestow on that of Banda Oriental.

Another shocking instance of the way justice is administered, or rather not administered is in the person of Maximo Fernandez, who has been SEVEN years in the Penitentiary without trial, although his offence was one for which the law does not prescribe half that term of imprisonment, even if he were found guilty. The unfortunate man has appealed to President Roca. This monstrous case alone, although there are too many similar ones, is a far fouler blot on this country than the imaginary massacres at Chorillos would have been on Chile, if true, yet our colleagues continue to fill column on column about an event conclusively proved to be apocryphal, while, we venture to say, poor Fernandez's case will hardly receive a line. No wonder so many things are upside down in this country.

Patacons	29.20

National Bank Shares	76½
Bonos	¾ premium

The market after Carnival and the close of the month's liquidation opened drooping, and gold looks very weak; prices, however, did not much fluctuate, dropping 5 cents for end of month; prices for cash held at 29.20 all day. Cedulas look as if going to par, very little of the stock offering in the market; one lot of Series E sold at 87.

National Bank Shares were sold to-day ex dividend at 76½ cash, which is equal to 80; prices for the end of the month opened at 76¾ and closed at 77½; speculation in this stock seems to be very strong, all who bought last month at low prices have made handsomely, and some new buyers of the stock are now offering. The Prensa and other papers announce what is generally believed that at the coming Congress the right of emission in the capital will be granted to the National Bank. This would of necessity put the shares at par.

Bonos Provinciales are also looking up at ¾ premium; in fact all stocks appear to be advancing, as there is a scarcity of stocks felt in the market.

The Umberto I entered Montevideo to-day with 500 immigrants for this port.

The Maskelyne, Commander Chevalier Hairby, has also arrived after her customary splendid run; she brings a large list of passengers, many old friends, and some Irish emigrants. We should like to see these Lamport & Holt steamers bring us out 500 Irish emigrants every trip, and hope to see some step taken in that line. The Maskelyne brings some fine English cows and bulls to Mr Runciman and to Mr Shennan.

To-morrow's special excursion party to try the new Campana steamer leaves for Rosario; we have no doubt they will give the greatest satisfaction.

Mr Krutisch, our well known German discount broker, was welcomed on 'Change on his return from the Baradero. He describes the colonists all flourishing up there, but many grave complaints against the Juez de Paz. The potatoe and maize crops have been splendid, but owing to the drought the second crops have all missed; however they are all doing well up there and thriving.

The Magellan sailed from Valparaiso on 25th and is expected in Montevideo on 8th.

Circulars have arrived by the mail announcing the formation of the new firm of Heyworth Hart & Co., brokers in hides, tallow, bone ash, &c. at Liverpool succeeding the two extinct firms of Heyworth Bolman & Co., and Heyworth Tupper & Co., both dissolved owing to the death of Mr Peter Geo. Heyworth.

The French shipping bounty law was passed on 31st Jan. Lord Tandon has called the attention of the British Government to this new law, and in Italy the Italian Minister has also taken the matter up. The French lines of steamers plying with this country will make immensely by this new law, it will amount to £2,000 a trip to the Chargeurs Reunis steamers.

The liquidation for February closed amidst the frolics of Carnival. Monday, although in other years was high Carnival, was this year a business day; all the banks were open and the Bolsa crowded. The business for the month was indeed heavy, as expressed in the following list of vencimientos—

Gold, 12,649,000 pats.
Cedulas, 313,000 pats.
Nat. Bank Shares, 23,150 shares.

Mr Mazano, the liquidator, had rather a busy time of it and posted the following prices as his liquidating rates—

Gold, 29.25
Cedulas, 90
Nat. Bank Shares, 77

Throughout the day there was a large business done, but gold did not give way as much as some anticipated. On the liquidator's counter immense sums in checks, stocks, &c. were piled, and at 3 o'clock all accounts were closed, when it was discovered that gold was over and stocks short. Auction was at once called

To buy—150 Nat. Bank Shares short—

Throughout the day there was a fair business done in Nat. Bank Shares for end of March at 77, which with the dividend brought prices up to 80¼.

Spite of the large delivery of gold on Monday (one broker delivered 600,000 pats.) there was paper for all, and the slight weakness noticed in gold was due far more to the news from the various barracas of more doing in wool than to any combination of the bears. So much has been said of the dulness in the wool market and nothing whatever doing in the article that few were prepared to read in Messrs Woolgate's circular that in February, which is a very short month, our wool shipments reached 25,463 bales. The least increased movement in produce at once shows on the gold market, and wools are coming in now from the camp and sold right off, which have been locked up in the farmers' houses, having been sold to 'acopiadores', who now forfeit the 'seña'.

Dr Newkirk, of Goya, who returned from Europe in the str. Ptolemy, was welcomed on 'Change; he goes up to Goya on Friday in the steamer Parana. The Dr. made a short run through Europe and the U. States, and was absent only 5 months.

The barque Tyde leaves the Boca to-morrow for Rio with a full cargo of hay; she is chartered to load a full cargo of coffee there.

Three Italian barques were chartered during Carnival to load produce in the rivers at reserved rates.

The Danish barque Ariadne, that collided with the Shenandoah in Montevideo bay, has been condemned; her wine cargo has to be landed and sold.

Advices from Mercedes in this Province report a Committee formed there under the presidency of Mr Nich. Lowe to organise a cattle and rural fair there. The move is a capital one and has given the best results at Chascomus. On 22nd February, Washington's birthday, a meeting for the purpose was held in Mercedes, presided over by Mr Lowe; the following were present—

The mail from Rio bring the following respecting the great drop in exchange there, and other commercial advices, which may interest this market:—

"The decline in Exchange, which has been going on for some time in face of considerable shipments of coffee, is not easy to understand, and 'authorities' put forward varied explanations. Among the patriots the general theory is that as the Bank of Brazil has virtual y retired from the direction of exchange, the Government backing having been withdrawn, the other banks are taking a delight in depreciating the currency for some mysterious reason known only to the native alligators; others assert that owing to the prevailing low rate of interest here much foreign capital is being exported; whilst others ascribe the decline to large Government takings of bills. In regard to this last view, however, the Jornal has officiously stated that the Treasury is not a purchaser of bills, and will not take whilst the present depressed condition of the market continues, and that, as relates to the payment of the April interest of the gold bonds, the Treasury is expecting the required gold to arrive by the next two or three packets.

To-day a deputation of steamer agents waited on Dr del Viso, Minister of Interior, on the subject of the unjust fine imposed on the Gaudiana. Mr Dillon, emigration agent, attended after due explanation the matter was left with the Minister, who will doubtless take the right view of the matter.

"Exchange—Our market opened on the 9th instant at 21½ per $ for Bank bill, and 21½ 21 7/16 and ¾ for Commercial paper, and these rates were firmly maintained until 12th in t, when, Banks declining to give freely at 21½, some small transactions in Commercial bills were reported at that rate, and a small amount of Bank paper passed at 21-¾.

"On Paris rates have been 446 to 448 reis per franc for Bank, and 442 to 445 reis for other bills.

"To-day (14th) Banks have opened rates at 21½, but no transactions are reported.

"Freights—The harbour is bare of shipping and rates are nominal. The reverse must be said of steamer rates, which have suffered a decline, owing to a number of outside steamers having been offered in the market both for Europe and New York—

"The Petropolis Railway is likely to be completed in time for the next summer season, the required capital having already been almost wholly subscribed since the expiration of the Bentley-Collins imperial concession of a line from Rio around the West side of the bay ceased to interfere with the Calogeras provincial concession of a line climbing the serra at the locality of the present zig-zag carriage road. According to the present plans the existing Mauá railway is to be narrowed to one metre, the same gauge as the Riggenbach line that is to ascend the serra, so that there will be no change of carriage from the port of Petropolis, only a change of locomotive being necessary at Raiz da Serra.

"The inauguration of work on the Petropolis Railway is expected to take place on the 1st of May, after His Majesty's return from Minas Geraes.

"The Ministry of Agriculture has called for tenders for the construction of bed &c. of a branch, 11k.600 long, from the Canoa terminus of the Baturite Railway to the city of Baturité, situated at the foot of the Serra of the same name. OBITUARY.

With extreme regret we have to announce the death of the Rev. James J. Curran, Irish chaplain of Navarro. He was the friend of our boyhood's days, as well as of our maturer years. We mourn his loss as that of an esteemed friend and a hard-working priest. Death is fast thinning the ranks of the Irish clergy in the Plate. Long rides and drives by night and by day, long fasting and weary hours in the confessional, must tell sooner or later on the strongest constitution.

Father Curran was an only child of highly respectable parents, and was born in Navan in 1835. He studied in All Hallows' College, and was ordained in 1859, and immediately set out for his mission in Buenos Ayres. He laboured unceasingly from that time up to the moment he breathed his soul to God in the humble home of Navarro. He was not a day idle: he served the chaplaincy of San Antonio, Baradero, Giles, and Capilla, for a long time; and afterwards, with the late Father Kirwan, took charge of an Irish college established on the site now occupied by the Jesuit Fathers. For many years he attended the districts of Lobos, Saladillo, Monte, and Navarro, until declining health caused him to retire to Navarro and attend that district alone. He died last Tuesday, and in his last moments was attended by Father Davis.

Father Curran was a good theologian and a sound scholar. He and the actual President of All Hallows' were class-fellows, and were both first-class premium men. He preferred a life of toil and obscurity in South America to the probability of high position and preferment at home. His life of labour in the camp is too well known to need any comment from us. He was the guide, counsellor, and father of his flock, as the Irish priest always is. Does anything of importance, or advantage, or misfortune occur in the life of the Irish Catholic, immediately his first impulse, prompted by the instinct of faith, carries him to the priest to tell him all. Has peace left his heart or household, he goes to the priest, confident that he will restore it. Has sorrow come upon him through death or woe of any kind, the first solace is that which the priest may bring him. For, no matter that he is aware that the priest is a mortal, he knows that for the benefit of mankind he is clothed with the divine power of Jesus Christ. Nor is this confidence misplaced; for, as Father Hogan said, in his funeral oration over the grave of a distinguished classfellow, Father Keating (both of All Hallows'), the history of the woes and miseries of the Christian family bears witness to the disinterested action of the priest. Wherever misfortune befalls his flock, there he is chiefly conspicuous. Neither war nor famine nor danger, nor sickness, however contagious, can terrify him: everywhere he is ready to bear the testimony of his office. And this is a phase of the priest's life that is often overlooked. People generally see him only externally and socially: they know very little of the trials and very little of the workings of his mind. And what is there in this, his wondrous life (outside the happiness of his sacrifices), to reward him? What is to repay him for the sacrifice of the lawful joys of domestic life; what for the sacrifice of his own will, so dear to man; what for the assumption of so terrible a responsibility, so real that he may almost touch it with his hands? There is no compensation except what he finds in the discharge of his duty; for the world never excuses him if he makes a mistake, because the world almost forgets that he is a mortal, clothed with human nature.

Father Curran's parishioners will long mourn his loss, for they learned to appreciate his worth and loved him well. A large concourse followed his body to the graveyard, and laid it peacefully to rest until the day when the trumpet of God's angel calls the dead to life in order to receive judgment.

May he rest in peace.—Southern Cross.

Remataremos a la mas alta postura y sin limites de ninguna clase, los nombrados campos, conocidos por el Venado Tuerto, situados sobre la frontera de Buenos Aires y Santa Fe, distando nada mas que 60 leguas de la Capital 15 leguas de Rojas, 6 de la Teodelina (de Alvear), 15 del Pergamino y 20 del Rosario.

Dista de las Estancias de los Sres. Gahan, Casey, Brown, Ham, Morgan y otros como 5 a 7 leguas.

Dichas estancias han costado casi todas de $30,000, a $500,000 la legua, y se garante que sus pastos no son mejores que los campos que se venden.

El ramal del Ferro Carril del Oeste que va al Pergamino y estara concluido en 15 meses cuando mas, pondra estos campos a un dia de viaje de Buenos Aires.

Estos campos son verdaderamente esplendidos y han sido visitados hace muy poco tiempo por un numero de hacendados y personas inteligentes que los reputan de primera calidad.

Hay muchas personas que creen que los campos virgenes o de pastos fuerte son de la misma calidad; es un gran error que ha costado mucho dinero a algunos potladores.

Los campos al Sur de Venado Tuerto que lo forman los partidos de Lincoln, 9 de Julio, etc, son mas o menos arenosos llenos de medanos y nunca seran campos de primera calidad. Los al Norte no son arenosos pero en campio muy duros y casi imposible de refinar, mientras que los campos que ofrecen en venta son de tierra negra, pastos inmejorables con grandes cañadones, hermosas lagunas y lomadas, seis medanos.

Son campos que admiten 2000 vacas y dos majadas de ovejas; or cada legua cuadrada y no son unicamente para cria de vacas, sino tambien para engorde.

Como tenemos orden terminante de vender todo el campo sin reserva alguna y siendo muy probable que por ser una area tan grande no se consiga la mitad del valor de estos campos, queremos llamar muy especialmente la atencion de los senores hacendados sobre su importancia.

Podemos asegurar desde ya, que la mayor parte de los compradores seran estancieros irlandeses y es sabido de todos que ellos van essa pioneers de la ganaderia, los campos pronto dublican su valor.

Prueba de ello son los campos del Norte y Oeste de esta provincia, donde han pagado de 1½ a 2 millones por legua y todo el mundo decia que eran locuras; mientras tanto quienes son los hombres de fortuna en el pais?

Tenemos la firme conviccion que una vez que esten poblados estos campos y una parte alambrados, que lo sera antes de seis meses, no se podra comprar alli una legua por menos de 400,000 m/c.

Las condiciones de la venta son:

50,000 al contado y el resto a 1, 2 y 3 anos de plazo con interes del Banco de la Provincia o con diez por ciento de descuento haciendo el pago al contado.

Se vendera en lotes de una legua con opcion a mas, al gusto de los compradores.

Los planos estaran a disposicion de los interesados, desde el 12 del corriente en nuestra casa Alsina no. 78.

NOTA IMPORTANTE—La venta se efectuara aqui en nuestra casa Alsina 78, despues de un esplendido lunch que ofreceremos a nuestros parroquianos y al efecto deberan munirse de la correspondiente tarjeta de admision, sin la cual no podra tener acceso al local del remate. Siendo limitado el numero de tarjetas [100] pedimos ocurran con tiempo por ellas.

PARLIAMENT

SUSPENSION OF MR PARNELL AND HIS PARTY.

London, Feb. 4th

Last night the uproarious scenes which have in ever-increasing degree distinguished the sittings of the House of Commons since the session commenced reached what may reasonably be hoped is the fullest measure of disorder. The questions on the paper passed over without incident. When they were concluded, Mr Cowen had a conversation with the Premier on the subject of the conduct of the Speaker.

Shortly after Mr Parnell, rising without notice, abruptly asked the Home Secretary whether it was true that at one o'clock yesterday Mr Davitt had been arrested. This question, conveying to many members the first intimation of the fact, was received with some cheers, which were repeated and prolonged when the Home Secretary answered, 'Yes, Sir.' When silence was restored, Sir W Harcourt went on to state that he and the Irish Chief Secretary had come to the conclusion that Mr Davitt's conduct had been incompatible with the ticket of-leave by which, as a convict, he was permitted to be at large. Renewed cheers broke forth from the general body ot the House, through which cries of 'Shame!' came from the Irish quarter. Mr Parnell asked which condition of his ticket-of-leave Mr Davitt had violated? This request for further information was met by cries of 'No!' from the Ministerialists, and Sir W Harcourt sat unresponsive. Mr Parnell, rising again excitedly, the Speaker, half rising from his chair, motioned to Mr Gladstone, who advanced to the table and commenced to move the Resolutions for amending the Standing Orders of which he had given notice. He had not advanced many sentences when Mr Dillon rose, and was greeted with loud cries of 'Order!' The Speaker said Mr Gladstone was in possession of the House,and called upon the right hon. gentleman to proceed, he having, in accordance with the custom of the House, resumed his seat when Mr Dillon rose, presumably on a point of order. Mr Dillon, who also resumed his seat when the Speaker rose, now again stood up. Three members thus simultaneously presented themselves to the notice of the House—the Premier at the table, Mr Dillon in his place, and the Speaker before the chair. Mr Gladstone, paying deference to the Speaker, again resumed his seat, leaving Mr Dillon confronting the right hon. gentleman. Loud cries of 'Chair!' 'Order!' broke forth from all parts of the House, while Mr Dillon stood with folded arms silent amongst the clamour.

The House presently grew very quiet, waiting for what might follow on this strange and unprecedented scene. The Speaker was still on his feet, and Mr Dillon still stood with folded arms below the gangway. Some members cried 'Name! Name!' whilst from the Irish members there came a low, persistent chorus of 'Point of order! Point of Order!' The Speaker named Mr Dillon as being guilty of wilful and persistent obstruction. The Premier rising, moved in due course that Mr Dillon be suspended. The Speaker put the question to the House, and it was answered by a loud cry of 'Aye,' followed by some shouts of 'No!' from the Irish members. All this time Mr Dillon was standing with folded arms gazing upon the House, the only silent man in the assembly. Mr Cowen, crossing over to him, appeared to offer some counsel, which was supported by Mr Labouchere, the result of which apparently followed when Mr Dillon at length sat down. Mr Sullivan, remaining seated and taking off his hat, called out at the top of his voice, 'Mr Dillon rose to a point of order. I object to the division.' At this moment the House was densely crowded, In no part of it was there a seat visible. Members who found it impossible to obtain seats on the floor crowded the galleries on either side. The galleries allotted to strangers of all conditions were filled to their utmost capacity. The peers crowded on the heels of each other in their gallery, among the throng which stood at the doorway unable to obtain seats being the Duke of Cambridge. The Speaker issued the customary order to clear the House for the division. For some moments the Irish members remained seated, but after consultation rose and left the House.

Owing to the numbers being so greatly in excess on one side, the division took a long time. When the tellers came to the table it was announced that 395 had voted 'Aye,' and 33 'No.' The Speaker having recited the figures called upon Mr Dillon to withdraw. Mr Dillon replied that he respectfully declined to withdraw. This defiance being repeated, the Speaker called upon the Sergeant-at-Arms to advance. A scene of extraordinary excitement now followed. The Sergeant-at-Arms stood at the corner of the gangway waiting for Mr Dillon to surrender himself. Mr Sullivan was shouting out from his place, 'On a point of order,' an exclamation met by angry cries that he also should be 'named.' Mr Dillon still declining to withdraw except force were used, the Sergeant-at-Arms beckoned in a number of attendants, at sight of whom Mr Dillon rising, consented to go, and walked out amid some cheering from the Ministerialists, and cries of 'Shame!' and 'Cowards!' from the Irish members. As soon as he was gone Mr Sullivan, rising, 'respectfully submitted' that in the case of Mr Bradlaugh debate had been permitted on the question that he be suspended. But the Speaker explained that in that case there had been no order of the House such as he now acted upon. Mr Dillon had defied the authority of the Chair, and in accordance with a standing order had been suspended. Mr Sullivan attempting to continue the contest, the Speaker quietly said, 'The point of order is disposed of; I now call upon Mr Gladstone to proceed.' Mr Gladstone approached the table, the O'Donoghue jumping up to move the adjournment of the debate. The speaker ruled Mr Gladstone was in possession of the House, whereupon Mr Parnell, rising amid cheers from the Irish members, moved that Mr Gladstone be not heard. The Speaker again calling upon Mr Gladstone, Mr Parnell shouted out, 'I insist upon my motion being put.' The Speaker having warned Mr Parnell that his conduct was wilfully obstructive, again called on Mr Gladstone, who had not proceeded beyond his first sentence when Mr Parnell, rising again, excitedly insisted upon his right to be heard. 'I name Mr Parnell as disregarding the authority of the Chair,' said the Speaker, and Mr Gladstone moved his suspension.

The House was again cleared for the division, Liberals and Conservatives walking out; but the Irish members remained seated, Mr R Power walking round and round as a shepherd's dog guards a flock of sheep. The majority were a long time clearing out, members lingering in the passages to watch the result of this new proceeding. Having communicated with the Irish members, Lord Richard Grosvenor, approaching the table, reported to the Speaker that certain members declined to leave the House. Mr Sullivan shouted out, 'We contest the legality of the proceeding.' The Speaker quietly answered that if members did not go into the division lobby the votes could not be counted. After a brief pause the Serjeant-at-Arms was directed to open the door of the 'Aye' lobby, and the majority came pouring in. In this division 405 voted for the suspension of Mr Parnell and 7 against. The figures being announced, the Speaker reported to the House that certain members having challenged the division, declined to leave and that their votes had not been recorded. He then called upon Mr Parnell to withdraw, an invitation which that gentleman always 'respectfully' declined. The Serjeant-at-Arms was then ordered to remove him. Mr Parnell declining to retire except by superior force, four assistants were called in, at the sight ot whom his scruples vanished and he at once rose and left the House amid cheers from the Irish party.

Once more Mr Gladstone approached the table. His voice betrayed traces of the physical exhaustion from which he was suffering, and it was with some difficulty he was heard. His purpose now was to take note of the fact reported by the Speaker, as to the refusal of certain members to leave the chamber when the division was called, and to assure him of the support of the House in preserving its order. He then reverted to the speech, and had got through a few words when Mr Finigan rose and moved that he be not heard. The Speaker, proceeding more quickly now as he grew accustomed to the work, promptly 'named' Mr Finigan, and Mr Gladstone with equal celerity moved that he be suspended. The House dividing the Irish members kept their seats as before, the circumstance being reported in the same way to the Speaker by Lord Richard Grosvenor. The Speaker informed the recalcitrant members that they were disregarding the authority of the Chair, and directed the Assistant Clerk to take their names. This Mr Millman did amid profound silence, just broken by the sound of the distant murmur of the majority penned up in the Aye Lobby. In this division 405 voted for the suspension, and two against. Lord Richard Grosvenor reported the names of the members who had remained seated in defiance of the Speaker's order. But before this was dealt with Mr Finigan had to be disposed of, and the Serjeant-at-Arms went through the same process as in the case of Mr Parnell. The Speaker then reverted to the case of the Irish members, 37 in all, who had refused to leave the House. Mr Balfour and Mr Gorst, eager in the cause of order, wanted to know whether these gentlemen could be dealt with 'ex bloc' or whether it would not be necessary to divide on each expulsion. From this prospect the House shrank with undisguised apprehension, and the Speaker proceeded to put the question, being interrupted by a cry from one Irish member of 'No Law!' and the despairing answer from another, 'No; it's all over.' The House dividing, 419 voted for the suspension ot the members named and 6 against. The Speaker then called upon Mr Barry whose name was first on the list, to retire. Mr Barry, echoing the formula used by Mr Parnell, declined to go except upon compulsion. This phrase was used with slight variation by all the 37 members as one by one they were addressed by the Speaker and ordered to withdraw. Some went at the touch of the Serjeant-at-Arms, others, like Mr Biggar, and Mr Sexton, insisted upon having their pound of flesh in the person of from four to six attendants, who marched in and out of the House oddly reminescent of the supers who form armies upon the stage. The Rev. Mr Nelson, who happened to be sitting near the cross benches, put his arm round the post when arrested by the Serjeant-at-Arms, and seemed inclined to fight for it. But on second thoughts he abandoned his intention, and, amid loud laughter, walked out of the House. Mr T P O'Connor, The O'Donoghue, and Mr Sullivan showing a disposition rhetorically to enlarge upon the formula which Mr Parnell had left as a last legacy, were interrupted by the Speaker with instructions to the Serjeant-at-Arms to remove them. The O'Gorman Mahon began a narrative dated fifty years ago; but it was out short in its earliest moments. The proceeding, watched at first with some interest, began to pall by reason of its sameness, and it was with a sigh of satisfaction that the House saw the last of the indicted members disappear.

But all was not over yet, though eight o'clock had struck and the scene had been prolonged over three hours. Mr. Molloy, having escaped inclusion in the general indictment, had an expulsion all to himself. This done, Mr. Gladstone again attempted to make his speech, when Mr. O'Kelly rose and moved that the right hon. gentleman be no longer heard. Mr. O'Kelly was despatched with a celerity possible only after extended experience. He was named by the Speaker, and the motion of suspension put from the Chair. Mr. R. Power challenged a division, but, being unable to name tellers, the resolution was declared carried, and Mr. O'Kelly was conducted to the door. Again Mr. Gladstone rose; and now Mr. O'Donnell, unfortunately absent when the performance began, hastened to associate himself with the expelled members by moving that Mr. Gladstone be not heard. Mr. O'Donnell was distinguished by having a division taken in his case, when one vote (Major Nolan's) was lodged in protest against the resolution, 311 voting for it. Two more "lives" remained in this curious Parliamentary game—Mr. R. Power and Mr. O'Shaughnessy—who succeeded in obtaining their expulsion by the less discourteous method of remaining seated whilst the division was taken in Mr. O'Donnell's case, and being named as disorderly, were suspended. At half-past eight Mr. Gladstone commenced his speech, now with a prospect—fully realised—of being able to finish it. After a long discussion, his resolution, amended by the adoption of some of Sir S. Northcote's suggestions, was agreed to, and the House adjourned.
